CARE

Supported housing

Supported housing residents have their own tenancy agreements and rent their own home, while receiving support to build the confidence and skills needed to live independently. They're responsible for their own bills and cost of living, which is usually paid for by the benefits they receive, and can be topped up by earnings from any employment.

Typically, people are ready to live independently or move on to alternative supported housing between six months to two years.

CQC-registered supported housing

Care Quality Commission (CQC) registered supported housing is similar to supported housing but delivers additional personal care services to people with medium or higher-level care needs.

CQC Registered | NHS Compliant

CQC-registered residential care

Residential care or nursing homes are a long-term care option for people with disabilities or mental health needs who are unable to maintain their own tenancy. Residents are encouraged to live as independently as possible, but will receive a high level of care and support from staff who are onsite 24 hours a day.

Floating support

Floating support is delivered within people's own homes or within the community. Project Workers provide practical support and advice to ensure people can continue to live independently in their own home.

Achieving greater independence

When the time is right, our staff work with the relevant local authority team to support residents to move into their own home and live independently.

We believe everyone deserves the opportunity to live a fulfilling life on their own terms, with the right support at the right time.
